

Journal of the Senate

FIRST DAY

SENATE CHAMBER, TOPEKA, KANSAS
Monday, January 11, 2021, 2:00 p.m.

In accordance with the provisions of the Constitution of the State of Kansas and KSA 46-142(d), the 2021 Session of the Kansas Legislature was called to order by Secretary of State Scott Schwab.

INVOCATION

Secretary Schwab recognized Reverend Cecil T. Washington, Jr., who delivered the invocation:

Praying for Peace in Times of Discord
Luke 11: 17-18, Isaiah 9:6

Heavenly Father, we're in a season where division and conflict are permeating our society. Here at home and across this nation, the discord is running wild. Lord, You said in Luke 11: 17-18, that people divided in civil conflict, cannot survive. So Lord, we need Your peace; not a bogus pseudo peace, but the real peace that only You can provide, and only You can sustain. Isaiah 9:6 declares You as the Prince of Peace. By the power of Your word, You speak and command things into existence. Realizing that You are the One we need to turn to, Sy Miller and his wife Jill wrote a prayer and turned it into a song, asking You for that peace. And the need for that prayer song is so relevant for today. Therefore, Father, In the Name of Jesus, fill our hearts with the desires of the this song! (Lyrics) Amen!

The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Secretary Schwab.

Secretary Schwab appointed Corey Carnahan to serve as temporary Secretary of the Senate until such time as a permanent Secretary is appointed.

Secretary Schwab requested the reader to call the roll of the Senate from the certified list of members-elect as submitted by the Secretary of State and recorded in the preorganizational meeting on December 7, 2020.

Thirty nine members-elect were present. Senator-elect Estes was excused.

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT MASTERSON

To my colleagues, I want to say thank you for your confidence in me to serve as your Senate President. It is a tremendous honor to lead this body as we embark upon a historic and challenging session. With new leadership in our Chamber on both sides of the aisle, we start off with a clean slate and an opportunity to come together on behalf of the people of Kansas. I also want to congratulate each and every one of you for being elected to represent the people of your individual district as leaders within this beautiful and historic chamber. Each of us has a unique story of how we got here; and each story results in a unique perspective which will bring critical value to our deliberations. In addition to our diverse life experiences and philosophies, we also have varying levels of experience here in the State Capitol. Some of us have been here for several terms, some are arriving from across the rotunda, and several are completely brand new to the legislature. The people of Kansas will be well served by this diverse expertise and experience that is present in the body today. I also want to thank my family. I love all of you dearly, and simply would not be in this seat today if not for your incredible support every step of the way. A debt of gratitude must be extended to ALL of our families who are in attendance today or watching and listening online, and of special note – those who are no longer with us. To those in our chamber today who have recently lost someone close to them, please know we are all thinking of you and praying for you. To all of our families who allow us to serve, we would simply not be able to do the jobs we do up here if not for your love and support. Thank you. Today, even in the midst of these difficult and often tumultuous times we are in, let's take a moment to celebrate, for there is still much to be thankful for. Our Constitutions, both federal and state. This beautiful State Capitol and all whom work here to make democracy flourish. The peaceful transfer of power and the rich traditions which we should never take for granted. The ability to engage in respectful and passionate debates about the issues that come before us. And most of all, the people whom we serve, in every corner of our state, who simply want to know their government is working for them and no one else. As we embark on this session and engage in doing the work we were sent here to do, we are reminded of the tremendous responsibility that rests on our shoulders, and the opportunity to help people in all walks of life. As we debate and consider the bills before us, several words come to mind. Wisdom. Discernment. Respect. Prudence. Civility. Integrity. Humility. If we remember these words as we debate, it will serve us well. We know there will be times that our debates are passionate, and that is okay – they should be. We are making important decisions that impact the lives of the people we serve. There will be a host of issues that we will discuss over the coming years, and there will be many tough votes along the way. In each instance, let us always put our fellow Kansans First. Thank you for the trust you placed in me and I look forward to working together for this great state. God bless you all.— TY MASTERTSON

REMARKS BY MINORITY LEADER SYKES

Mr. President, on behalf of the Senate Democratic caucus, congratulations on your election as President of the Kansas Senate. Also, congratulations to other Senate Republicans representing your caucus in their positions in leadership. To my fellow Democratic Senators: thank you for trusting me to lead our caucus over the next 4 years. It is an honor to work with all of you. I am grateful to be fighting for Kansas values alongside each of you. I would like to take the opportunity to thank my predecessor in leadership, Senator Anthony Hensley, for his decades of service to our state and our caucus. His principled dedication and grit have made Kansas a better state for our children and families. It is my hope that as a body, we will approach our coming work with those same values in our hearts. Congratulations to the 14 newly elected senators joining us in this chamber for the first time today. I know you all worked hard to earn the confidence of your constituents. I am confident you will work even harder to serve them well. I especially would like to welcome my caucus's three freshman senators. Having campaigned alongside you this year, I know firsthand your deep commitment to championing policies that will improve the lives of Kansans. I am looking forward to seeing the great work that you do in the Senate. To our families and friends joining us in person or watching on the live stream, thank you for your support throughout the election cycle, and for your continued support throughout our terms. Thank you to my husband, Jeffrey, and to my sons, William and Tyler. Like all legislative families, they understand that my calling to serve requires sacrifice and grace on their part. I am blessed to have them by my side. Many Kansans rang in the new year with a renewed sense of hope and optimism after a year full of challenges for our country; this pandemic has required flexibility, sacrifice, and resiliency for the people of Kansas and our country. Already this year, over 58,000 vaccine doses have been administered in Kansas. Our state secured more than $2.5 billion in capital investments last year, which will result in new jobs and a boost to our economy. We are not yet out of the woods, but with a renewed sense of communal responsibility to keep our fellow Kansans safe, we can make this year better than the last. I, too, am ringing in our new legislative session with hope and optimism that we will turn the challenges we face into opportunities to move our state forward. The Democratic caucus is resolved to work hard on behalf of the people of Kansas; to listen to and learn from our neighbors, and bring their ideas to the table; to approach these issues with a bipartisan spirit; to find opportunities for collaboration with our colleagues from across the aisle; to hold one another accountable to our common purpose; and to lead with courage, compassion, and common sense. Because while there is much hope in this new year and our new session, our state still has a tough road ahead. The economic consequences of the pandemic present yet another roadblock in our path to recovery from years of devastation. Tens of thousands of vulnerable Kansans continue to lack access to affordable healthcare during one of the worst public health events in our country's history. Rural hospitals are closing when access to care is critical to saving lives from this deadly virus. Too many Kansans remain unemployed, underemployed, and struggle navigating a safety net that was neglected for decades and left underprepared to handle the current crisis. It is our responsibility to address these challenges head-on, to move our state forward, and to improve the lives of the people of Kansas. Each of us offers a unique perspective on the problems facing our state. We do not always agree on how best to respond. But we share a commitment to our neighbors and the communities we represent. We share a common goal of creating a better future for Kansas children. In my tenure in the Senate, I have been most proud of the times we have put aside ideological differences to do what's best for Kansas families. Together we have reversed failed tax policies, developed a new school finance formula ending a decade of litigation, enacted protections for survivors of domestic violence, and passed balanced budgets to put our state back on track. We have come together in good faith to learn, debate, and seek compromise. We have seized opportunities to govern with courage and conviction. While this does not paint a complete picture of our work – which can be frustrating and at times disheartening – it does represent us at our best, and Kansans deserve nothing less. As we begin the work ahead, I ask that we put forth this best version of ourselves; that we remain dedicated to seeking common ground; that we are clear and intentional about governing based on facts, and telling our constituents the truth, even when it may not be what they want to hear; that we put the wellbeing of Kansans ahead of partisan politics; and that we are guided by grace. Let's get to it.—DINAH SYKES

A motion to place an adversely reported bill (or resolution) under the order of business General Orders on the Calendar shall be made when the bill (or resolution) is upon the Calendar and shall be made when Introduction of Original Motions and Senate Resolutions is in order, and that motion shall then lie over until the next legislative day when the order of business Consideration of Motions and Senate Resolutions is reached, but if such motion is defeated once it shall not be renewed. If an adversely reported bill or resolution has been previously referred separately under Rule 32 (authorizing the reference of the same bill or resolution to two or more standing committees), then the motion shall be to return the adversely reported bill (or resolution) with the committee report attached to the next committee to which it was referred.
