Re: Testimony in Opposition of SB 511
Date: March 15, 2022

Chairwoman Erickson and members of the committee,

My name is Jake Miller, and I work for the Working Kansas Alliance (WKA). WKA is an organization made up of labor organizations and non-labor organizations that support workers' rights. Working Kansans and their families deserve protection for the jobs they perform. Primarily, public sector employees who educate our kids through a pandemic, protect our communities, make sure our roads are clear through snow and ice storms, or make sure our communities maintain power working around the clock like they did last week. WKA stands in opposition to SB 511 due to its attempt to weaken public employees' collective voice.

This bill has had a hearing in either this committee or Senate Commerce every year for the last four years. Every year we hear from individuals who aren't from Kansas that we need to have this bill. They continually tell the Legislature that Kansas must do this to comply with Janus v. AFSCME, Council 31, 138 S. Ct. 2448 (2018). That is entirely false.

Janus v. AFSCME impacted many states across the United States; however, Kansas was not one. The case affected states who were not already right-to-work states for public sector employees. Kansas has been a right-to-work state for all employees since the 1950s, which means that Kansas has complied with Janus for over 60 years.

Taking away the Janus argument, what this bill aims to do is weaken public sector workers' voices. These workers are the ones who were deemed essential workers through the COVID-19 pandemic. This bill targets to weaken the voice of firefighters, police officers, corrections officers, teachers, electrical linemen, road crews, and many more. These workers have had an unprecedented last couple of years. As recently as last week, some have worked in excess of 12-hour days to keep Kansas's roads clear and lights on. Those are the workers this bill is targeting.

SB 511 prevents union members from agreeing to a payroll deduction for a distinct period. This bill instead restricts members and unions by allowing them to reach agreements only under which the member can revoke his or her dues deduction commitment at any time. The widely accepted standard, which the federal government has adopted for its employees and the private sector, is one year. This bill interferes with private, voluntary contractual relationships.

Furthermore, the unions I know of allow their members to drop their union membership as soon as the request has been made. Meaning this bill is not actually needed.

Additionally, HB 2354 is inconsistent with the Legislature's public established state policy and employee free choice. Kansas law provides public employees have and the right to "form, join, and participate in the activities" of unions and an equal right to refuse to join unions or participate in union activities. K.S.A. § 75-4324(a). Instead, SB 511 would place a thumb on the scale attempting to sway employees from joining the union, which does not allow free choice. If an employee's free choice were the goal of this legislation, language would not be included, in 14-point font, to try and persuade them otherwise.

This bill also places a significant burden on public employers and school districts. This bill places a requirement for employers to email employees to confirm they signed their authorization cards for dues deductions. Every year, as is required, when members sign their authorizations, public employers would have to follow up with an email to confirm signature. An email to their employer issued email, which many will not have or check frequently if they do. However, this bill does not require those same public employers to email individuals who chose not to join the union. The whole idea of employee free choice is just that, free choice. Due to this bill forcing employers to only notify and individual of only half their right, WKA must oppose SB 511.

The Legislature should proceed with caution regarding this bill. This bill could open the state up to a constitutional challenge regarding equal protection. This bill singles out unions and their memberships but does not include any other types of memberships. Should this bill proceed, there will be a legitimate constitutional challenge brought against the State of Kansas.

This bill has not adequately been vetted and brings with it substantial costs to the State of Kansas, local governments, and school districts. Those costs have no choice but to be passed on to the taxpayer. Adding this burden on local government and school districts will force them to raise taxes in their communities.

Most respectfully,

Jake Miller
